Good afternoon,

Attached please find a few pictures and videos of Environmental violations being committed by Athens Services. The company is pumping what seems to be raw sewage from a man hole in their yard onto the street causing the gutters to flood with foul smelling water. A nearby Socal construction site had to be put on hold earlier today because the water they were pumping out ran down the gutters and leaked into the open hole they were performing maintenance on. This is not the first issue that has been reported to our office about this company. We have emailed them directly in the past in regards to their drivers cleaning the trucks out on the street and leaving loose debris on the sidewalk. Until this day that violation has not been corrected and we continue to get reports about drivers continuing to do that. Can we please take a further look into what action can be taken against this company to ensure that they begin to comply and no longer commit these violations.
